CHACE has to reduce hours due to staff shortage

Lack of provincial funding is forcing the County of Haliburton Agency for Child Enrichment (CHACE) to cut back the hours of operation of the Minden Resource Centre.

The centre operates from 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays and from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Mondays and Thursdays.

CHACE administrator Cheryl Cathcart told The Times that the agency needs another part-time staff member to keep up with demand at the centre, but attempts to secure the necessary funding have come up empty.

Operation of the two resource centres, located in Minden and Haliburton villages, is funded by the Ministry of Community and Social Services. The cost of running the Minden facility is approximately $50,000 a year.

Cathcart says the problems experienced by the Minden drop-in centre are really two-fold. Part of the problem stems from the enormous demand for the services provided by the centre.

When the centre was first established on Minden's Main Street at the corner of South Water Street, it was expected to handle about 40 people a day.

Cathcart says the demand far exceeded expectations with 80 or 90 people passing through the centre's doors on some days.

"I feel this is a terrific community service," said Cathcart. "That so many people are using it, indicates the community needs the centre."

But the demands of providing service to 1,500 to 1,600 people a month leave the staff with little time to perform the necessary administrative and programing duties.

The centre is now staffed by one full-time supervisor and a part-time employee. Besides looking after the needs of the children and caregivers using the centre, the two staff members also have to look

Children just love coming to Minden's CHACE resource centre to learn and play with others of their own age. However, the centre's growing popularity means the hours will have to be cut back until they can secure more funding for staff and additional space. Among the many who came out to the centre Friday were Kathleen Tivey, Kathryn Berube, Kelly Lawr, Candace Lowes and Janelle Campbell.

Residents of Anson, Hindon and Minden have to consider whether or not asking the organizers for Rider for Sight to return next summer is biting off more than we can chew.

Public opinion sought on Ride's return

Residents of Anson, Hindon and Minden are being encouraged to show their support for, or opposition to, the prospect of Ride for Sight's return to the village.

Ride organizer Syd Collier recently said he hopes to make a pitch for the event's return at the Oct. 11 meeting of council, although the municipality has not yet been contacted to confirm that date.

At last Thursday's council meeting, Deputy-Reeve Bern Berry said, if the Ride organizers are here in Oct. 11, he would like to see the meeting well-publicized to give people a chance to come out and voice their opinions.

Minden hosted the Ride for Sight for five years, but after the 1989 event organizers announced they were relocating to Peterborough for 1990.

A new home is being sought now that Trent University has placed a limit of 5,000 participants who will be allowed on the grounds in 1991.

Chamber seeking Drainville's support for tourism foundation

The Chamber of Commerce is pursuing its idea for a Rural Tourism Development Foundation with the new Ontario government.

Chamber members presented the idea to Liberal tourism minister Ken Black just prior to the Sept. 6 election, but Black, and his government, were swept away with the New Democratic Party's majority victory.

Ann Larcade, the Chamber member chairing the committee that developed the proposal, says efforts are underway to present the initiative to the new government.

"We've asked for a meeting with Dennis Drainville to present him with the study and explain it to him," said Larcade. "He's committed verbally that he's going to meet with us."

Drainville is Victoria-Haliburton's new NDP representative who ended the Liberal's 16-year hold on the riding with his victory in the election.

The Chamber's proposal call for the creation of a Rural Tourism Development Foundation which would market Haliburton County's recreational attractions.

The first-year cost of the proposal is $83,000 which the chamber hopes will be split between the provincial and federal governments and the private sector.

Larcade says the Chamber has been waiting until the new government is sworn in today (Monday) to find out who the NDP will name as tourism minster.

She said a prompt meeting with the new minister will be requested to present the plan.

A meeting is also being sought with a representative from the federal government to seek support, said Larcade.

"It's very much a go. We're just in a bit of a waiting period."

Despite the fact the Chamber is holding its elections on Oct. 17, Larcade says she expects that a "central core" of members will stay on the board of directors to carry on with the proposal.

The Chamber plans to enlist the aid of retired Victoria-Haliburton MPP John Eakins who attended the committee's meeting with Black and promised his continued support for the idea.

Waiting for water

Council plans to force ministry's hand

Water extension will proceed, with or without province's approval

Minden council has set the stage for a showdown with the Ontario Ministry of the Environment.

At issue is the delay in getting ministry approval to extend the township's sewer and water system north along Bobcaygeon Road to service about six lots in the vicinity of the cemetery.

At last Thursday's meeting councillors announced their intention to go ahead with the water and sewer extension on October 15, whether or not they get the ministry's approval.

"We're just going to go ahead and do it," Minden Reeve Ray Moore told The Times on Friday. "It's breaking the rules, but we're just sick and tired of waiting."

At the meeting, Deputy-Reeve Bern Berry said the municipality applied for the extension last April but the Ministry's representative, Brian Howden and the township's engineer, Godfrey Saunders, have not yet managed to get together to discuss the issue.

There are already two houses built on the lots the township wishes to service with water and sewer, and one of the houses is being occupied.

A hose running from the house to a neighbouring home is providing water for the occupants and a holding tank is being used for sewage disposal.

Councillor Mike Maher expressed his concerns with council's plans to force the ministry's hand by proceeding with the extension without approval.

"We're obliged to follow the rules of the ministry," said Maher. "I fear the repercussions of not awaiting their stamp of approval.

"I'm nervous about going ahead without approval. Down the road it may come back to haunt us."

But Berry said taking the initiative and going ahead with the work may be the only way to get the ministry's attention. He said he hoped that council would unanimously support a resolution to begin the extension on Oct. 15.

After some discussion, council decided to table the resolution unit the members of the Public Utilities Committee could consider the council's proposal.

If the committee supports the motion, it will be passed at the Oct. 11 council meeting in time for work to begin Oct. 15 as proposed.

Moore says the township isn't even asking the ministry to help finance the project.

"It's all paid for," he said. "We're not asking for one bloody nickel. We've got the money to do it ourselves."

Adding to the township's frustration is the ministry's approval of water service for the proposed 75-lot Windover subdivision on Deep Bay Road.

"They're saying we can service 75 lots, but we don't have enough to service two," said Berry.

The letter approving service to the subdivison was issued by the ministry's office in Toronto, while the decision regarding the Bobcaygeon Road extension rests in the hands of the Regional Office in Gravenhurst.

Water Woes: Minden is drowning in a sea of red tape

Water, water everywhere and not a drop to drink.

That's how Minden council must be feeling after trying for the past three years to increase the municipal water supply.

The town now get its water from a well on Bobcaygeon Road across from the intersection with Deep Bay Road. But with increased demand, the well has experienced periods of strain during the summer months when water usage is at a peak.

The situation prompted council to enact a water usage by-law restricting water concumption during the summer for outdoor uses such as car washing and lawn and garden watering.

At the same time the municipality has been trying to find another source of water to increase the supply, but has met with frustration, high costs and Ministry of the Environment red tape along the way.

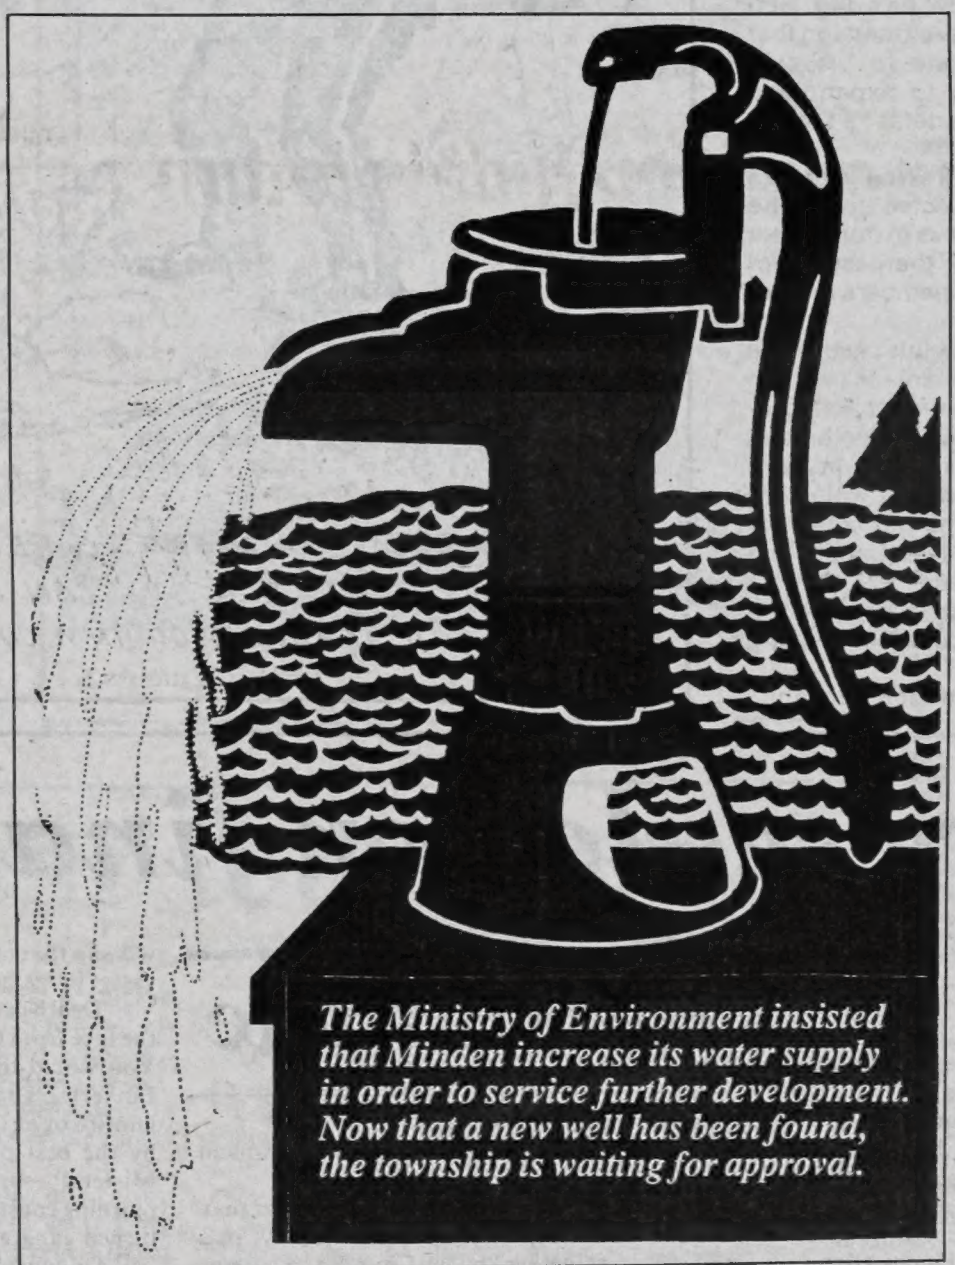
Minden Reeve Ray Moore says the search began with the idea of using a well located on The Times property, located beside the current municipal well.

Testing of the site determined that the well would not produce the required volume of water however.

The township then turned its attention north to the Gull River and the Orillia Light and Power dam. Moore says that in 1935 a outflow pipe was installed in the dam in order to provide water to the town.

At the time, each residence in the village had its own well and the township could not afford to build a municipal water system using the water stored behind the dam.

Last year the township began investigating the possibility of using the 55-year-old outflow pipe to add water from the river into the municipal water system. Moore says the plan was to build a second, 12-foot dam below the Orillia Light and Power dam to collect a pool of water for treatment and filtration before being pumped into the water system.



The Ministry of Environment insisted that Minden increase its water supply in order to service further development. Now that a new well has been found, the township is waiting for approval.

"The minstry shot that down," said Moore. "They didn't want us using water from the river. They said using wells was the only route."

So the municipality dug a test well at the top of Newcastle St. and hit water just 32 feet below the surface. But after testing the site they found the well produced just 60 gallons a minute, which is insufficient according to the minstry.

At the suggestion of Minden's clerk, Mary Mysyck, the township dug another test well near the ambulance station on Pritchard Lane and hit a gusher, which has been dubbed by some as 'Mary's Well.'

The well has more than enough capacity to fill the township's needs, but still awaits ministry approval before it can be hooked into the municipal system.

"They've screwed us around and screwed us around," Moore says of the ministry. "All they want us to do is spend our money."

With the summer over, the township doesn't need the additional water from the new well until demand increases again next June. During the winter, Moore says the exisiting well "gives us more water than we know what to do with."

The ministry has told the township that the water supply has to be increased before more town lots are created, but now that a source has been found, council is having trouble getting the ministry's attention.

Council is planning to force the issue with a proposal to proceed with a water and sewer extension along Bobcaygeon Road near the cemetery.

The township has not yet received approval for the project but council has stated its intention to proceed with the work on Oct. 15, regardless of whether that approval is received by then or not.

"We're going to go ahead an do it," says Moore. "We may be putting our necks in jeopardy, and they can go ahead and sue us if they want, but we're just sick and tired of waiting."

Senate games

Disrespect for Canada's politicians and our federal system of government is reaching a dangerous level, thanks to Pierre Trudeau, Brian Mulroney, the proposed Goods and Services Tax and misplaced confidence in the Senate's impotence.

Trudeau earns partial credit for the wave of disgust for abusing the system by stacking the Senate with those of his own political stripe.

The GST, the most unpopular piece of legislation in memory, provides fertile conditions for the growth of resentment.

But the most deserving of our scorn is Mulroney. He misled us with his criticism of Trudeau's patronage appointments only to copy his predecessor's pattern with new vigour. He ignores the vast majority of Canadians with his efforts to breathe life into the Frankenstein he calls the GST. And now, he's dug deep into the Constitution Act to find an age-old section that allows him to manipulate the Senate to his own advantage. The section allows him to expand the Senate by eight members in order to defeat a Liberal motion to kill the GST.

These actions clearly underscore the need to replace the present Senate with an elected body. The Senate is one of the checks and balances in our system of government, but its right to block the passage of legislation is questionable since the members are not accountable to the public.

We applaud the Senate's actions in this case, since it is responding to a cry from most Canadians to crush a highly-unpopular piece of legislation that was produced without a mandate by an unpopular government.

In spite of our disrespect and dislike for Mulroney's government, we are forced to live with their whims for at least another two years. With this ominous fact of life in mind, it would be encouraging to have a Senate that might look after our concerns and needs.

Unfortunately, it looks as though Mulroney and his merry band of thieves might succeed in stealing this from us.

Is there any wonder why so few trust politicians?

Lips are sealed on final taboo

Black 'n White

by Arthur Black

It's not that I'm afraid to die. I just don't want to be there when it happens.

Woody Allen.

Ah, yes. Death. The final taboo. Go into a bar, slip on to a bar stool, strike up a conversation with the person next to you and chances are pretty good that before you're halfway through your first Sasparilla, you'll hear more about his or her political beliefs, religious convictions and sexual orientation than you ever wanted to know.

But if you ask the stranger about death? Zipper lips. Clam city. And a sidelong We-Don't-Allow-Weirdos-In-Here glare from the suddenly chilly bartender.

We're a civilization of inveterate gabbers — except when the subject is death.

Which is a pity, considering it's an appointment we all have to keep.

Of course, some exits are more spectacular than others. Joan of Arc went out, quite literally, in a blaze of glory, incinerated by the Church as a heretic. Zeuxis the Greek, on the other hand, underwent a more ignominious finale. Zeuxiz, a painter who lived around 500 BC, daubed a satirical portrait of an old woman that made him laugh so hard he blew a blood vessel in his head and died on the spot.

Death can be, as someone once said, like a pie in the face from God. Take the case of Allan Pinkerton. You would think the founder of the world-famous Pinkerton's detective agency would go out in a hail of gunfire or at the very least on silken sheets attended by the best physicians money could rent. Not so. Mister P. stumbled one morning while taking his morning constitutional, biting his tongue. The wound turned gangrenous and Mister Pinkerton died.

Or consider Claudius I. One would expect such an august personage to expire with all the pomp and majesty befitting a Numero Uno in the Roman

Canadians are IRATE over the GST

The following is a letter from IRATE to Prime Minister Brian Mulroney.

Mr. Prime Minister:

It has been brought to our attention that as of September 1, 1990, you intend to implement the Goods and Services Tax (GST).

As you are well aware, what you are doing is illegal. You cannot, under any circumstances, implement this tax or any other tax until it has been approved by the Senate and has received royal assent.

We, the Canadian people, will not allow you to force businesses and organizations to steal from us for your benefit. You are the Prime Minister and your foremost responsibility is to honour and respect the laws of this nation, not break them. As Theodore Roosevelt once said:

"No man is above the law and no man is beneath it. Therefore, no man's permission is required to obey it."

We would point out that your government did not at any time have a mandate to introduce, much less pass, Bill C62. The majority which you enjoy in the House was elected on the basis of the issues presented to the people in the 1988 election. Bill C62 was never such an issue. In fact, had you wished to introduce Bill C62 during the campaign, your advisors would have dismissed it as being less than politically astute. It is obvious that such a seriously flawed proposal would never have held up to scrutiny during an election campaign. It would also never have passed without a clear majority in the House.

It is our belief that the passing references made to tax reform in the 1988 election campaign, in particular, Bill C62, were made with the clear intent to capture a House majority. The electorate was grossly misinformed as to the scope of your so-called tax reform package. The manner in which the proposed GST was dealt with during the 1988 election campaign is, in our opinion, tantamount to fraud.

When you and your Cabinet Ministers tell us that you intend to ram this tax through no matter what we say, you are completely disregarding the democratic principles on which this nation was founded and built. As any reasonable person can tell you, democracy is government of the people, by the people, and for the people. Therefore, your assumption that your government somehow holds an intellectual monopoly on knowing what is best for this nation and its people is not only arrogant, but outrageous.

Your threatened pressure tactics against His Excellency the Governor General and the Senate amount to nothing more than childish manipulation in order that your government may have its way and not the way of the people in whose interests you are committed to act. We will not allow you to continue a party power play at the expense of this nation any longer.

There will be no last minute 'rolling of the dice' (for which you are famous) by approaching the Governor General at the end of 1990 and telling him that you need the revenues from the GST as you have rescinded the Manufacturers Sales Tax (MST).

The MST must remain in place until such time as a new tax system is agreed upon by the Senate and the Canadian people. The GST has not been passed

Bylaws violated in Blairhampton

Empire. Uh-uh. Claudius choked on a chicken feather — a chicken feather that, ironically, his personal physician had thrust down the Emperor's throat to induce vomiting. (Claudius' wife, it seems, had been slipping her hubby poisoned mushrooms in an attempt to become sole custodian of the family jewels.)

Indeed, in the game of death, irony often lays it on thick and heavy. I don't know if curiosity killed the cat, but it certainly didn't do Sir Francis Bacon any favours. Riding through a snowstorm in his carriage one day, Sir Francis had a brainwave that stuffing dead bodies with snow might slow down decay. He stopped his carriage, got out and purchased a chicken, killed it on the spot and stuffed it with snow.

Alas, Sir Francis never got to write up the experiment. He caught a chill from his chicken-buying spree which turned into a fatal bout of pneumonia.

The award for Most Grotesque Death goes to Thomas May, a 17th century English historian. Mister May was fat. Very fat. So fat he had double chins on his double chins. May's pendulous jowls got to be such a logistical problem that he took to tying them up with bandannas. While shovelling down dinner one day, Mister May began to hiccup. By the time bystanders got his throat kerchiefs untied, he'd choked to death.

Let us close the coffin lid on this grisly chapter with the story of Yousouf Ishmaelo, a world champion Turkish wrestler who toured North America in the late 19th century, defeating all comers and amassing a fortune — which he converted into gold coins and kept in a leather pouch that he wore day and night.

What safer place? The man was a mountain of muscle. Who could take it from him?

Well, an old Mat Mama who fights under the name of Mother Nature, actually. Yousouf and his money belt went down with his ship off Nova Scotia. He could easily have swum to safety, you understand — but not with a belt full of gold around his waist. And Yousouf stubbornly refused to part with his leather pouch right to the end.

Which is not a fate I'll ever have to worry about.

My wallet's so empty I could use it for flotation.

County welfare dept. facing $70,000 deficit

Haliburton County is starting to feel the pinch of Ontario's recession with a soaring welfare caseload.

The caseload is double what it was last year and the costs have increase proportionately, the county's Social Services chairman reported to county council.

Although the budget for social services was increased for this year, Minden Deputy Reeve Bern Berry said that budget has already been exhausted. In fact, he said the social services department is operating on a deficit of more than $8,000 and if the current trend persists the deficit will climb to between $55,000 and $70,000 by the end of the year.

The figures quoted by Berry include only the county's share of welfare costs. The province's share is about four times that of the county, he told The Times.

The trouble has been created by a combination of several factors. A slowing economy, the closure of a Harcourt saw mill, a poor season for tourism and the immigration of welfare recipients from the south all add up to more welfare payments.

Further complicating the problem are initiatives making welfare more accessible and Unemployment Insurance more difficult to get.

According to Berry, the province implemented the STEP program in Haliburton County. This program offers better benefits and also provides wage subsidies to candidates to help them return to the workforce.

At the same time, Unemployment Insurance benefits have become more difficult to gain access to, which has resulted in a shift from UIC to welfare. People must work a longer period of time than in the past in order to qualify for UIC benefits, said Berry. This means more people are applying for welfare.

"These are things we can't forecast or control," said Berry. He noted that items that can be controlled, such as staffing and salaries, are right on budget.

One of the more alarming factors that have brought about this deficit is the influx of recipients from cities.

Morris Honeyman, social services director, said this factor alone accounts for about 15 per cent of the caseload. He said people are drawn to this area from urban centres to avoid the high housing costs. He said they are coming up to stay with relatives or friends.

Honeyman predicted that many of these people will not stay past the autumn. "A lot of people won't stay. They think it's cheap living, but when the snow flies they find out they should move back to the city."

Alarmed at the costs generated by this influx of welfare recipients, Minden Reeve Ray Moore wondered if there is some way out of it. He said he welcomes people to the county to come and work, "but I don't welcome people to come up and get assistance. I don't think it's fair."

There is nothing that can be done to prevent this, aside from making sure that all cases are legitimate, said Warden Don Shortreed. "Morris is making sure that no one's abusing the system," he said. "There's nothing we can do about people moving up to the cottages."

Haliburton County is not the only area of the province to feel the effects of the economic downturn. "It's not just Haliburton County," said the Warden, "It's province wide. and there's no immediate good news in the forecast.

"We're all going to be under serious contraints," he said.

Moore lobbying for Minden to host convention in 1993

On September 20, 1990, Ray Moore met with the Haliburton Chamber of Commerce on behalf of the Municipality of Anson, Hindon and Minden.

Moore wanted the Chamber support in preparing proposal and hopefully co-ordinating Anson, Hindon and Minden's bid to host the 1993 Ontario Small Urban Municipalities Annual 3-4 Day Convention.

This would be an ideal convention for the Highland's area and one of the largest ever hosted in our area. There would be anywhere between 300 - 500 Municipal Councillors alone along with spouses and related support staff. It would come at an ideal shoulder season during May.

The Board was quite enthusiastic in its support with various Board Members suggesting bus shopping tours to different local artists and artisans and different points of interest throughout the County. The possibility of a local theatre group putting on a dinner theatre evening was also mentioned.

The Board voted unanimously to support Mr. Moore and Anson, Hindon and Minden in their bid to attract this convention. The Chamber Manager, Robyn Jarvis, has already began working putting together the proposal.

Increased demand strains staff's workload

after maintenence of the facility, develop a monthly calendar of activities and develop age-appropriate programs within the centre's budget.

"With the number of people using the centre, the staff is not getting a chance to do that," said Cathcart. The agency felt the addition of another part-time staff member would relieve the workload and allow the centre to maintain its hours.

However the request for funding was turned down by the Ministry of Community and Social Serives, saying there is no available money in the ministry's budget.

The other option, says Cathcart, was to reduces the centre's hours of operation to give the staff time to catch up on their work.

"We don't like doing that," she said. "We're taking away some of the service." She said she understands the concerns expressed by the residents who use the facility.

Although she understands the agency's postition, Minden resident Cindy Wheeler says the reduction in hours is unfortunate.

Wheeler's one-year-old son goes to the centre everyday with his babysitter. "The place has done wonders for him," says Wheeler.

Besides giving children access to a whole range of toys, books and activities, Wheeler says the centre allows her son to socialize with other children. It allows parents who are new to the area a chance to meet other people, she said.

The other problem facing the Minden resource centre is a lack of space. With demand for the service increasing, Cathcart says the present facility has become too small to adequately house the centre.

The agency has been looking for a new location to rent in Minden to house the centre, but Cathcart says that finding a suitable location, at price the agency can afford, is proving difficult.

Cathcart says the problems being experienced in Minden are part of a provincial trend.

"The main problem is that child care isn't an issue," she said. "It's not on anyone's political agenda." She says the ministry's office in Peterborough has worked very hard on behalf of CHACE and done everything they could to support the agency. They just don't have enough money in their budget to meet all the needs in the area. "Their pockets are only so deep," says Cathcart. "It's a provincial situation."

So far the Haliburton resource centre has not experienced the same problems as the Minden facility. Cathcart says only about 40 people a day are using the Haliburton location and there is room for expansion, if needed, at the location.

Council overturns PAC decision, agrees to rezone small lots

A decision by Minden's Planning Advisory Committee not to rezone three properties on Soyers Lake has been overturned by council.

Minden resident Bob Austin attended last Thursday's meeting to request that council rezone his property from Rural (RU) to Residential Limited Services (RLS) despite the planning committee's rejection of his application.

Deputy-Reeve Bern Berry is one of the committee members who opposed the rezoning and said the decision was made because the lots are undersized.

Under the township's by-laws, waterfront residential lots must have at least 132 feet of frontage. Only one of the lots presented by Austin meets this requirement, the other two have frontages of 105 feet and 118 feet respectively.

Berry said protection of the environment was one of the concerns that guided the drafting of the Official Plan in 1985 when the 132-foot rule was instituted. He said the Ministry of Municipal Affairs told the township in 1988 that they should be adhering to the Official Plan and the provision for 132-foot minimum frontage.

The three lots were created while the township was still using its old zoning by-law, 14-67, which only required 100 feet of frontage.

Berry said the current Rural zoning does not prohibit owners from building cottages, but does require that buildings are located at least 33 feet from the lot lines. In a Residential zone, buildings can be within four feet of neighbouring lots.

Berry said he felt the lots should be left zoned Rural in order to ensure that there is privacy on waterfront properties and to guard against the construction of what he called "monster homes" on the lots.

Austin argued that "discreet" homes can built on 100-foot residential lots and said there are numerous lake front properties in the county with only 100 feet of frontage.

He said environmental concerns were

Old cars are their cup of (Model) T

Model T owners tour the Haliburton Highlands

A visit to Minden's Frontier Motors last Saturday was like a taking a trip in a time machine.

Amidst all the brand new offerings from the Ford Motor Company was a collection of Model T's, the vehicle which best symolizes Henry Ford's automotive empire.

The dozen cars, ranging in model years from 1911 to 1927, are owned and operated by members of the Ontario chapter of the Model T Club, who were in Haliburton County to take in the autumn colours and the Studio Tour.

The weekend was organized by Frontier Ford owner Charlie Muli who is a member of the club and owns a 1914 Model T.

Among the participants was Eagle Lake resident Alan Bagg, who brought along his 1914 Model T, one of three he currently owns.

"I've always loved Model T's," said Bagg. "They're a whole lot of work, but if you like them, you put up with them."

Bagg bought his first Model T when he was just 16-years-old and has owned half-a-dozen in the years since. He says there's

OPP hopes trend of lower death rates continues for the holiday

With the number of road deaths down this year, the Ontario Provincial Police is hoping that Thanksgiving holiday weekend fatality statistics will be lower than last year.

"We've established a good record during the first nine months of this year," says Inspector Bill Wicklund of the OPP's Traffic and Marine Branch in Toronto. He says that the 563 vehicle and pedestrian deaths investigated by the OPP are down 8.8 per cent from the same period last year.

Most road deaths in Ontario occur on weekends (on Friday and Saturday) and holiday weekends often result in higher death rates.

During the Thanksgiving weekend last year, 11 people were killed in accidents investigated by the OPP, the same number as in 1987. In 1988, 10 people were killed Thanksgiving weekend.

Failure to wear seatbelts continues to be a contributing factor. Persons killed in 113 of the 380 fatal accidents recorded so far in 1990 were not buckled up.

"October is Buckle Up Month and we'd like more people to join those of us who do comply with the law, even on short, local trips," Wicklund says. "It's for their own safety to wear their seatbelts, obey the speed limit and not drink and drive."

It's always tempting...but

It's always tempting to simply jump in the boat and go, but if you take just a moment to ensure safety, you might avert a tragedy. Remember, the minimum requirements for vessels less than 5½ metres in length is one safety jacket for each person on board, two oars with rowlocks or two paddles, some type of signalling device, a class B-1 fire extinguisher if there's an inboard motor or a fixed tank, and a bailer.

Underdog Junior Redmen surprise leaders with tie

The HHSS Junior Redmen soccer team stunned the first-place LCVI club Wednesday by holding them to a 2-2 tie.

With a record of two losses and no wins, the Redmen were clearly the underdogs for Wednesday's match in Haliburton. However, they put in an outstanding performance to hold their opponents to a tie.

Mike Morrison and Jonathon Bishop were the giant killers in this game. They each pounded one into the LCVI mesh.

This was the third game of the season for the Redmen. They play again on October 3 in Fenelon Falls.

Soccer Redmen upset LCVI with second straight win

Jan Haedicke led the HHSS Redmen Senior soccer team to its second straight victory Wednesday, upsetting the league leaders by a 3-1 margin.

Prior to Wednesday's game, LCVI was sporting a perfect record. Redmen coach Walter Tose said the Lindsay team was far and away favoured to win again, but the Redmen rose to the challenge.

Haedicke added another two goals to his own record — his fourth and fifth goals in the past two games. David Carr pounded the insurance marker into the LCVI net to clinch the win.

The young Redmen squad started this season on a disappointing note with a 3-0 loss to Fenelon Falls. They showed great improvement last week by thumping Lindsay's I.E. Weldon 4-0. And this week they moved into a tie for first place by upsetting LCVI.

LCVI had built an impressive early reputation by ousting Weldon and Fenelon Falls in their opening two games. Wednesday's loss puts them on even keel with the Redmen.

The next game for the Redmen is slated for October 3 when they visit Fenelon Falls for a rematch.

Hustler's seasons closes with overtime loss to Fenelon Falls

Another baseball season has come to the end for the Minden Rockcliffe Hustlers.

The local team lost the third in a five game series Monday night and yielded the championship to Fenelon Falls.

The game in Fenelon Monday night was a close one with both teams locked in a 1-1 tie at the end of regulation seven innings of play. It wasn't until the top of the ninth that the deadlock was broken as the Hustlers grabbed two runs and saw a possibility of forcing a fourth game.

However, Fenelon rallied in the bottom half to score three runs and the inter-county title for 1990. The final score: Fenelon 4 and the Minden Rockliffe Hustlers 3.

IRATE citizens request support in GST fight

Editor:

As you may be aware by now, I.R.A.T.E. citizens of Peterborough has decided to take legal action against the Prime Minister and the government of Canada.

What started out as a protest against unfair taxation (G.S.T.) has now become a fight for the very survival of Canada as a democratic nation. When we as Canadians elect a person to serve as Prime Minister, this is the highest honour we can bestow upon another Canadian, and it is an honour not to be taken lightly, and, as such that person not only undertakes to serve the people, but protect, honour and respect the rights of the people and the laws of this nation.

The four corner stones of every civilized nation are, democracy, justice, fair taxation and responsible government.

We have none of the above in this country today.

What we have is dictatorship, corruption, lies and deceit.

The Canadian people deserve better than this.

There are, in Canada today, fourteen and a half million people out of a voting population of just under 18 million who are against the G.S.T. I.R.A.T.E. is in the process of sending millions of signatures to the Senate asking them to stop this tax, and we belive the Senate will do their duty (as they have done in the past) to this nation and to the people by stopping the G.S.T.

Our Prime Minister has decided that this is unacceptable and must be changed as the Senate and the people are standing in the way of his dictatorship. Instead of bowing to the will of the people and stopping the G.S.T., he has decided to stack the Senate against the very people who elected him by using what is known as a constitutional provision.

That provision is in our constitution for one reason only, if the Senate is against the people and the government of the day, the government of the day can then stack the Senate, with the permission of the people, that's democracy.

For Mulroney to try to use this provision (without the permission of the people) in order to get his own way, would be considered an act of treason in a democratic country and he would be dealt with accordingly.

He must not be allowed to tear apart the very foundation of our civilized society, he must be stopped now.

The time has come for every Canadian to put aside their differences and defend this nation in every way possible.

We must not sit on our hands and complain and let Mulroney run roughshod over everything that is good and decent in this wonderful country of ours.

The people of I.R.A.T.E., though small in numbers, have the will and determination to do whatever is legally possible to stop this tax, but they cannot do it alone, they need your help and they need it now, time is of the essence.

Please send whatever you can spare to I.R.A.T.E., Box 1473 Peterborough, Ont. K9J 7H7.

I would like to thank you in advance for your financial support and your concern for your Country in its hour of need.

If every Canadian gives according to their means, and with the help of God, we shall stop this poor excuse for a Prime Minister and this hideous tax, and the day will surely come when every Canadian can say with pride and with one voice, Oh Canada, we stand on guard for thee.

John Welham,
Peterborough.

into law.

This letter is to inform you that we, the people of Canada, intend to commence legal proceedings against your government if you insist upon implementing this illegal tax.

Also, be advised that a copy of this letter is being sent to Her Majesty the Queen through His Excellency the Governor General, and to Senator Allan MacEachern, House Leader of the Senate.

Oh Canada we stand on guard for thee

We remain your must humble and obedient servants, the people of Canada.

Prayer a symbolic skeleton

Editor:

Many times I have felt failure in my life experiences. The irony is that in succeeding at failing, I also succeeded at learning to practice private prayer. I am not a religious, wise, worshipper if you will — but rather a struggling human being who has just one skeleton left in my closet. Private prayer is my symbolic skeleton — for there is only one witness as to how and when I exercise it.

I used to laugh at people who prayed publicly or privately. It was my own awkwardness projected onto people who were dedicated to helping, caring, and dramatically changing the lives of others through their disciplined habits of private prayer. One need not be a church attender in order to practice daily prayer. In fact my head is that much more attuned when I pray in the great outdoors. My attendance at church can provide me with the emotional energy I need to perpetuate my private prayer; but the church building itself need not be a pre-requisite for me to establish affective prayer.

Prayer provides truth

My great-grandfather, Joseph Burns, was an avid outdoorsman, despite the fact that he was also totally blind. He was known as a spiritually insightful man, for I know he had a steadfast prayer practice with God. He came to see clearly many things that most of us would never come to know. Among his many talents, he was a prolific poet, and so his poem 'The Woodpile on the Hill' (John Hulbig, Kinmount has a copy of it) clearly articulates his ability to know and see the truth — although he was blind. I am convinced that private prayer empowered Joseph Burns to seek justice wisely within the community that he served. His prayer practice professed truths that were to teach many others.

As adults we are very good at avoiding truths, for in knowing the truth we would discover our vulnerabilities and weaknesses, and in so doing we would have no means of protecting ourselves. We are often so diligent in teaching children how to pray, but we refuse to re-capture that innocence that children display when they make requests to God. Prayer is simply complicated, to the degree that we choose to make it.

All I know is that through my private prayer I became a witness to truth; and in turn my weakness for some unknown reason became my strengths. I no longer feel failure in my life. I only know a blind faith that has developed beyond my understanding. My boldness is in the belief that my skeleton will always be there, and that the closet door will always remain open to receive me.

Three very special residents of Highland Crest were honoured at last Thursday afternoon's tea. Lillian Curry, Isabella Eastman and Mary Oliver, the three members of the home's first century club, were saluted during a birthday party held in their honour. Lillian, Isabella and Mary are testaments to the good health and good care that exixts at Highland Crest. The members of the century club were presented with a scroll by Bern Berry, who represented Haliburton County Council at the party.

Cancer fundraising exceeds goal

More funds than ever before have been raised through the generosity of the public by the Victoria-Haliburton branch of the Canadian Cancer Society.

Karen Acton, chairman fo the branch's 1990 fund-raising drive, says more than $100,000 has been raised since the campaign began in April. The total is $10,000 above the $90,000 goal the branch had for this year's campaign.

Funds raised by the Cancer society throughout the year go toward local patient services, transportation of patients and research. All money pledged in Victoria-Haliburton is put to use by the local branch in this area.

The Cancer Society's annual meeting will be held on Wednesday, Oct. 24 at the Cambridge Street Bapist Church in Lindsay.

The meeting, to report on the unit's activities for the 1989-1990 year, will be at 7:30 p.m. at the church, 28 Cambridge St. North. Dessert and coffee will preceed the meeting.

Anyone planning on attending the meeting is asked to contact the Cancer Society office at 324-6896 by Oct. 17 is possible. All interested members of the public are welcome to attend. There is no admission charge.

The local branch of the society is looking to people who are interested in helping out a very worthwhile cause.

These could be people of any age and background. The only pre-requisite for becoming a Cancer Society board member or volunteer is a willingness to want to help others.

The Victoria—Haliburton unit is currently in need of volunteer board members. Just two of the positions currently needing to be filled for the 1990-91 year are treasurer and vice-president.

There are many people in the community whose lives have been affected in one way or another by cancer. Those who are looking for a way to help can do so by contacting the Cancer Society office

Hi Kids!

Here is another puzzle for you with a word list. Look in the diagram of letters for the words given in the list. Find them by reading up, down, forward, backward and diagonally. They are all in a straight line and do not skip letters. Circle the words in the diagram and cross it off the list.

It's as easy as that. Have fun!

Residents enjoy fall colours

Senior League

by Winnifred Barnum

Thursday morning, since it was sometime since we had gone in the bus, Doris thought it would be different to have a drive in the morning, to see the changes in the leaves instead of having Fun and Fitness. We left Hyland Crest about 9:30 a.m., and went to Haliburton where we stopped, an bought two dozen assorted donuts as a treat. We returned via Donald, Lochlin and the South Lake Road, and were home by 11 a.m. We enjoyed the ride very much, and thank Doris and Gladys Bowman for making it happen.

In the afternoon the Kinmount Ladies of the Legion Auxiliary provided the lunch for our tea party. This delicious lunch was served by Mary Hartin, Gladys Silver, Julie Grozelle and Cecile Shettler. We enjoyed the lunch, and a social time with the ladies, whom we thank for their efforts.

Friday was Happy Hour again. Those who were here to provide the entertainment were Mike Biagi playing the mouth organ, Connie Biagi, guitar Frank Faulkner, violin, and Doris on the piano. The residents and friend enjoyed the music greatly, and thank them. We also thank the volunteers who looked after everyones comfort, Eilieen and Don Holden and Mary Guillemin.

Sunday my niece, her mother and father came from Peterborough, and took me for a drive, and we had dinner out. As much as we appreciate all the outings we have its so comforting when our families come to take us out and we do thank them.

Sunday night chapel was conducted by Reverend John Burgess, and Alice Jones played the organ. As usual we had an interesting service and we thank Mr. Burgess and Alice very much. Leon Jones spent the time with his mother Annie Jones who is very ill.

Monday afternoon was the first Auxiliary meeting since summer began. There was much to catch up on, and new plans for the coming year.

Monday evening Dorothy Hunter showed two films. The first one was "Freaky Friday", and the second was "Winter in Ontario with Hagood Hardy". We thank Dorothy very much.

Tuesday morning chapel service was taken by Evelyn Coleman. She told us a story about a porcupine who had never had a hug because he was so prickly.

The porcupine, is just like some people who make you think they don't want a hug, because they say or act as though they don't want anyone to care about them, when that is just what they need. Thank you Evelyn, and have a good holiday.

This week we had three residents having birthdays. Ann Collison was September 20, Cora Upton was September 22, and Maron Rose was September 23. A happy birthday to you all. Mary Oliver, also has a birthday on September 26. This will be her one hundred

Meals on Wheels helps out

"It's a wonderful feeling to be a bright spot in someone's life!", says Barbara Gyles, a volunteer delivering meals in her own community as well as serving as president of Meals on Wheels of Ontario. "Assisting people to maintain their dignity and independence in their own homes is a worthwhile objective", she said.

Last year, 43,000 volunteers across Ontario actively shared this philosophy. They showed their concern for their neighbours by delivering 2,000,000 hot, nourishing meals to 66,000 clients who are not as mobile as they once were.

Haliburton County Home Support Services is part of this provincial network which grows larger each year. We have many volunteers in our County who give some time each year. Meals on Wheels Week is celebrated annually to recognize these dedicated volunteers who deliver a cheery "Good afternoon... Meals on Wheels... How are you today?" with each meal.

Meals on Wheels support is often for a short term period because a person in convalescing but it can be for a longer period. Such is the case with Mr. G., Metro Toronto, who is caring for his wife, a victim of Alzheimers. He says, "I just wouldn't be able to do it myself."

It is evident from demographic projections that the need for Meals on Wheels in our communities is only going to escalate. The provincial government has recognized this fact by instituting a Long term Care Reform to the social service system in Ontario. Volunteers and staff of Haliburton County Home Support Services have attended the forum co-sponsored by the Ministry of Health and the Ministry of Community and Social Services outlining plans to utilize available resources and assess what is needed in the future. We know that Meals on Wheels is considered an integral part of this planning for in-home services.

The biggest challenge to meeting the growing need in Haliburton County is to maintain our volunteer component. It is this factor that makes Meals on Wheels special. This requires the commitment and dedication of our local citizens.

This is an open invitation to the people in our County to join us in bringing warmth into a neighbour's life. "It is a satisfying and first birthday. We all congratulate her and wish her a very happy birthday.

Tuesday afternoon Doris took some of the residents on a bus ride to Kinmount and Bobcaygeon to see the coloured leaves. They were so beautiful near Bobcaygeon. They are not turned as much as they are this way. Of course we had our treat at Kawartha Dairy. We thank Doris our driver, Gladys Bowman, Doris' helper on activities, and Jankie, a volunteer. Also those who helped load and unload the bus. They are a wonderful help.

Last Thursday evening we had bingo with two ladies calling for us. I did not get the ladies names then, they were Bev Fomenko and Marg Prentice. This Thursday, September 20, Sheila Carrell and Marg Prentice called. We thank them sincerely.

This winter the wives of the Kinsmen Club are coming in pairs to call the bingo and the Kinsmen are providing the prizes, as they did last winter. We have had two evenings of bingo towards the contest now.

Request for dumpster refused by Minden council

A request for a municipal garbage dumpster to be placed in Canarvon has been denied by Minden council.

The request came from Mrs. J. McGiffin, as seasonal resident who owns a cottage in the northern part of the township.

In a letter to Minden's Road Superintendent, Clayton Cameron, McGiffin says using the Blairhampton Road to get to the Ingoldsby land-fill site "is not the answer for we cottagers at all."

She says she does her shopping in Canarvon and would like to see a dumpster placed at the intersection of Highways 35 and 118.

The dumpster, once full would then be transported to one of the township's land-fill sites for disposal. "We have viewed these units in the Muskoka's and they are not the least bit unsightly," she says in her letter.

"We as tax payers in this municipality feel we get very little for our tax dollars ad think that refuse disposal is something we could receive in return for our large, and getting larger, tax bills."

But citing cost and potential problems, Minden council decided last Thursday not to grant McGiffin's request.

Councillor Mike Maher said that in Muskoka all the garbage is already being trucked to dump sites, while a dumpster in Canarvon would require a special trip at the township's expense.

Deputy-Reeve Bern Berry said a dumpster in Canarvon could lead to a lot of problems.

"It would be costly and difficult to control what is being put in there," said Berry. Another problem would be controlling who was using the dumpster. "Canarvon is very close to another township," he said. "Dump sites are shrinking and we have to protect what we have."

Official Plan allows for undersized lots; Moore addressed by the Ministry of Natural Resources. "There's a staff of hundreds doing that for you," he said.

Reeve Ray Moore argued that the municipality was not being asked to create undersized lots, just to rezone them. Under the Official Plan Moore said council is allowed to rezone the lots to Residential and also that waterfront lots should be Residential as opposed to Rural.

In a recorded vote, council passed the rezoning application with Berry registering the only opposing vote.

Water levels report

At 50.8 per cent on September 17, the Haliburton Reservoir Lakes contained about 2 per cent less than the average of the 1970's. In 1987 the lowest recent year by this date, the lakes were already down to 35.2 per cent.

Minimum flows have been run most places from the Haliburton Lakes this week (ending September 22). No real need for the extra water has occurred recently; due to the cooler, wetter conditions prevailing. Two lakes will be dropping more quickly than the others, of course, because of their known shallow spawning areas. Kushog Lake and Big Bob Lake are lowered early each autumn to avoid lowering them after the fall spawning of their Lake Trout population.

Be a volunteer

leisure-time pursuit," is the general feeling our current volunteers. Many feel they get back much more than they give.

Some businesses encourage their employees to give up a lunch hour periodically to deliver Meals on Wheels - they in turn, give the employee the extra time it may require. This enables a full-time worker to be actively involved with his/her community. The company benefits, the employee benefits and the community benefits.

It's more than just love, it's an obsession something about the cars that attracts a certain breed of person. "There just seems to be those people who love Model T's," he said. "I'm one of them."

Not only do these people love their Model T's, some are almost fanatical when it comes to restoring the vehicles to their original condition.

As they wandered around the car lot Saturday, club members discussed the authenticity of the Model T's and debated the kinds of clamps, radiators or wheels that should, or shouldn't be on the various models.

While all antique cars represent a piece of history, Bagg's 1914 Model T played a part in Canada's political history.

It was used by Prime Minister Mackenzie King in the riding of North York during the 1915 election.

Bagg aquired the car 15 years ago, and when he bought it, it still had the original red paint-job that it sported while being used by Mackenzie King.

In the process of restoring the vehicle, Bagg painted it black, except the sidelamps which were still in good shape and remain the original, bright red.

Bagg says the car still runs beautifully, making the trek from Eagle Lake to Minden at speeds reaching 40 m.p.h. Oddly enough, Bagg says the older Model T's seem to run better than the later models. His 1927 Model T Coupe, for instance, wouldn't be able to keep with the one made in 1914.

Although you might think that getting parts for a car that went out of production more than 60 years ago would prove to be a challenge, Bagg says he's never had any problem acquiring parts for any of his cars.

Besides the supply of original parts, Bagg says there is also a wide variety of remanufactured parts for the Model T on the market.

The first Model T rolled off the Ford production lines in 1909 and the series continued until 1927 when Ford introduced the Model A.

The car was available in a number of colours from 1909 to 1916, after 1916 the Model T was only available in black until 1925 when a variety of colours was again offered.

The car featured a form of automatic transmission which involved the use of three petal to engage the clutch. Top speed was about 40 m.p.h. and the car originally sold for $300 to $400, with a starter costing an extra $25.

Muli bacame interested in Model T's when he acquired his 1914 version four years ago.

Amazingly enough, he got the car as a trade-in from Gordon Brown who was buying a vehicle from Frontier Motors. "We had a hard time evaluating it," says Muli.

And the story has another, ironic twist.

"When I bought my first car it was in Hamilton from a car lot owned by a man named Gordon Brown," says Muli. "I didn't make the connection at first, but it turned out to be the same Gordon Brown.

"It went full circle. He ended up buying a car from me."

After meeting at Frontier Motors, the Model T enthusiasts visited some of the local artists participating in the Studio Tour, travelled up Highway 35 to the canoe museum then returned on the backroads for a banquet at the Minden Curling Club.

Sunday featured a brunch followed by another tour.

This is the second year Muli has hosted the event has he says he's received excellent feedback from the participants.

The gathering of Model T's in Haliburton County last Saturday presented almost two decades of Ford technology as owners brought cars dating from 1911 to 1927 to the Frontier Ford lot. The weekend included a tour of the area and a banquet at the Minden Curling Club.

ARCHIE TURNS 50

The tradition continues

For more than 50 years, Archie Stouffer Elementary School has built a proud tradition in Minden; a tradition that will continue to grow and prosper with each graduating class.

"Continue to be proud of your school," Edna Morgan told the students who were among the hundreds who came out to the 50th anniversary reunion of ASES last Saturday afternoon. "Some day you will continue to be helpful and useful to other people and your school will be proud of you."

Morgan is the widow of former ASES principal Harold Morgan. She was asked to say a few words during the brief formal ceremony that was part of the 50th anniversary of the setting of the school's corner stone. She also assisted in the unveiling of a painting of the old stone school building that will hang as a reminder of the progress and tradition that ASES represents.

Along with Education Director Stuart Baker, Morgan unveiled the beautiful watercolour painting which was prepared for the occasion by local artist Gary Chapman. In doing so, she told the huge crowd in the auditorium that this artwork brings back many fond memories.

Although the painting is of the original stone building, the memories it conjures for Morgan are of the students. "... memories of the boys and girls and the voices and the little feet that we heard."

The 50th anniversary was more of a success than anyone could have hoped for. Activities actually began Friday afternoon when today's students and staff paraded through the village, chanting verses and waving banners to demonstrate their pride in the school.

And on Saturday afternoon the halls of school were filled with former students and teachers, some teary-eyed, all remembering the days when they were a part of the ASES community. They sought out their home rooms to discover that while much has changed in their absence, some things still remains the same. Some pointed with exuberance to the lockers that were once filled with their own books and pencils. Others shared reminiscences of the old days with old friends.

It was a time for remembering the good times, the experiences, the knowledge gained, and the friends who shared in it all. For a brief spell the wedge of time and distance that that has separated old school chums was withdrawn.

Education Director Stuart Baker and Edna Morgan unveil the watercolour painting of the old school during the brief formal ceremonies during last weekend's reunion. Morgan, former ASES principal Harold Morgan's widow, said the painting brings back many fond memories.

"This is a wonderful opportunity for the community at large to join in a 50th anniversary celebration," Education Director Stuart Baker said in his welcoming remarks. He said the students and staff have accomplished much in the first 50 years and have maintained very close ties with the Minden community.

Baker, himself a former principal of ASES, also paid tribute to the school's namesake, former public school inspector Archie Stouffer:

"If Archie Stouffer was able to revisit this school, I think he'd be very, very pleased."

Hundreds attend ASES reunion

There is no doubt, the Archie Stouffer Elementary School reunion attracted a large number of participants. How many attended is uncertain, as there was no specific way of counting the individuals who visited the school Saturday afternoon and the dance that evening. However, at both locations a guest book was available for visitors to sign in.

The following list of names is taken from that guest book. In some cases the signatures were illegible and so do not appear here, and in some cases we took a 'best guess' at the spelling of the names in the book. We have indicated the hometown or out of town residents. Those without a hometown listed indicated Minden was their residence.

Taking a trip down memory lane

For the many people who attended the Archie Stouffer ElementarySchool fiftieth reunion September 22, it was like a trip down memory lane. Former students met their fellow classmates and teachers, many who hadn't met since they left school. It was a time for recalling those carefree days of youth and reliving those moments which made their years at the Minden school so special.

To capture the flavour of those special times, we asked a variety of Archie Stouffer Elementary School (and Minden Public School) alumni to relate the strongest memory of their time at the school on the hill. What follows are brief glimpses of school life through the years as recalled by the students of Minden's Public School.

Doreen James of Minden, graduated 1931
Lois Quinn of St. Catharines, graduated 1934
Carol Beers of Cambridge, graduated 1937

These three sisters are part of a much larger family who attended the Minden Elementary and Secondary School. In fact, one of their sisters, Enid, (now deceased) returned following her graduation to teach at the school.

For them, the Minden school was a three room building which included a class for the secondary school students of the area.

"It wasn't uncommon to come to the school in the winter to find a dusting of snow on our desks," Lois recalls. "We would sit there with our coats, boots and hats on to try and keep warm."

"The boys were sent out to the wood pile to bring in logs to stoke the stove at the back of the room. And boy, the outdoor toilet was a chilly experience in the winter-time."

"There was no electricity at the school at the roads were not ploughed. It was always a tough walk to make it to the school."

While conditions may seem to have been rough, compared to today's standards, all three agreed that it was no less fun back then. One of their fondest memories was of the Christmas concerts held at the various small schools throughout the area. The young people of Minden would get together and travel by horse and sleigh to the schools on the Scotch Line, Bob Lake and Kinmount Road, among others, to enjoy the special seasonal performances at these outlying schools.

"In 1935, the entire high school class, covering all grade levels, numbered 11 students," one of the sisters added. Today Haliburton Highlands Secondary School, serving the entire county, has a student population of over 600.

Carol remembered an incident that, though not linked to the school, occurred during her younger years. She related that the sidewalks in Minden were wooden and often the nail holding one end of the boards would become loose and when someone stepped on one end, the other would come flying up. Deciding to eliminate the problem, Carol removed all the loose boards leaving a sidewalk with many blank spaces. Her prank was discovered, and she had to replace each of the missing pieces in the sidewalk.

Beulah Hewitt of Minden, graduated 1934
Valorie Gilbert of Minden, graduated 1970

The mother and daughter both attended Archie Stouffer Elementary School, although it was simply known as Minden Elementary School when Beulah was a student there.

Beulah's most vivid memory of her time at the school was the harsh winter weather which prevailed. She recalled the students and teacher huddling around the wood stove at the back of the room during the morning in order to keep warm in the frigid building. The trip to the outdoor privy in the winter was also a chilling experience.

Her family lived on the Deep Bay Road, near where the Nesbitt farm is now located. "It was a long walk to school, especially in the winter when the snow was deep," she remembers. "And in those days we had to travel the distance four times in a day, as all the students went home for lunch."

Valorie's experience was in a better constructed, modern school building. Her strongest memory of her years at the school was of an African teacher who was here on an exchange. "Mr. Parboo was my teacher in grade three. He wore his traditional African costume and cut an interesting figure as he strode into class wearing his flowing white robes." She also recalled the different, and sometimes frustrating way he taught penmanship. "All the upstrokes of the pen had to be light, barely visible on the page, while the downstrokes were dark." It took the students a long time to master his particular approach to handling a pen.

Lenore Prentice (Trumbull) of Minden, graduated 1938

Lenore was one of 14 children from her family who attended the Minden Elementary School. She started her school life at the Scotch Line School, but was transferred to the Minden school when the smaller school was closed.

Thinking back over her years at school, she recalled sadly that her brother died of diptheria while she was attending the school. The entire family was quarantined as a result of the death.

All of her four children have attended Archie Stouffer and her seven grandchildren have attended the school as well. The present principal, MacKay Brydon has suggested that she should be honoured with a special award for having attended the most Christmas Concerts than anyone in the Minden area.

Corinne Fleming of Wardsville, graduated 1943

Corinne remembers the day all the girls in a grade eleven class walked out on a teacher and refused to return until he was replaced.

The reason for the walk-out was not too clear, although she remembers it had something to do with the teacher's attitude toward the female students. The girls made a vow if the teacher continued in his way they would stage the walk-out.

The next day, the teacher gave them cause, and the entire female population of the class gathered up their books and walked out.

Corinne had an extra concern for her participation in the dramatic action. Her father, Wilbur McArthur, was a member of the school board. When she walked into his office at the Minden Echo that day after leaving school, he demanded to know what she doing there. She explained the problem and an emergency meeting of the board was called.

ALWAYS BRINGS A SMILE TO MY FACE

Fond memories kindled at reunion

(from page 30)

The meeting was held at the newspaper office and as students and citizens huddled outside, the board members discussed the situation. The board, perhaps being aware of other problems encountered with the particular teacher, replaced him several days later and the girls returned to class.

John McArthur graduated 1948

When John was attending the Minden school, it included several classes for secondary school students. Unlike today's routine, the students remained in one classroom and the teachers moved between classes as the subjects changed. "Just outside the windows of the classrooms, stacks of firewood were piled," he remembers. "Some of the bolder students, mostly boys, would take advantage of the teacher's absence between classes and slip out of the school by climbing onto the log pile and out to freedom."

It was an escape which John was unable to enjoy. His father was a member of the school board and he knew if he had tried to flee in that manner, there would be more than the usual punishment waiting for him if he was caught. "I was envious of the extra freedom these guys had, but my father warned me not to try it," he concluded.

Don Booth of Minden, graduated 1952

Minden's Fire Chief said his most pleasant memory for him was a grade five teacher by the name of Betty Richie. She made his year in school a most enjoyable one.

He also remembers the introduction of students from outlying smaller schools as they were being closed. The students from the smaller schools were awed by the "big city" and the Minden school with its many students.

Don also recalls the day the Minden arena collapsed. He was heading down the village's Main Street, slogging through what he described as three feet of wet snow. But before he crossed the bridge he heard from passers-by that the arena, located by the present municipal office, had fallen in. He immediately reversed his course and arrived at the arena to see the remaining portion of the community centre swaying in the air. "We didn't go to school that day," he remembers.

Molly McInerney of Brampton, graduated in 1969

Molly's most positive memory of her years at Archie Stouffer Elementary School was a grade five teacher Allan Brown. "He was the best teacher I had ever had," she recalled fondly.

On the opposite end of the scale, Molly remembers grade eight when, "We just about destroyed the whole school system. It wasn't until October that they could find someone to teach us."

Paul Fleming of Edmonton, graduated 1971

Paul had been aware of the reunion for a number of months and was determined that he woud attend to renew old acquaintances. He arranged his holidays to co-incide with the weekend but almost didn't make it to the event.

Paul is a member of the Canadian Armed Forces Search and Rescue Squad stationed in Edmonton. His duties take him to all parts of Canada.

Two weeks prior to the reunion, a Peruvian airliner disappeared off the east coast and Paul's unit was called in to assist with the search effort. After nine long days of combing the Atlantic, the searchers came up with little more than some debris from the airplane and the Wednesday before the reunion the search was called off and his vacation leave started.

Unfortunately, he was in Sydney, Nova Scotia holding an Edmonton to Toronto airplane ticket. The flights west from Nova Scotia were all booked. With some pleading and cajoling he was able to convince a military cargo plane flying to Trenton to take him along as a passenger. From there it was an easy car ride to Minden and the reunion celebrations.

"I travelled 400 miles to get here," he commented. "There was no way I was going to miss this reunion."

His most memorable experience at Archie Stouffer Elementary School was the grade six play his class presented under the direction of Mr. Pollard. "The play was called Dangerous Dan McGrew and it was a hit," he recalls. "It's something I'll always remember."

Andy Anderson of Whitby, graduated 1975

Andy's fondest memory of his years at Archie Stouffer occurred during his graduation year when he received the Tim Harrison Memorial Award for outstanding accomplishment in music. It was the first year the award was presented.

During his time at the school, there was no music program at the high school, and so those students still interested in instrumental music would travel by bus to Minden for instruction. His ability on the tuba was so advanced that he was included in this special class for senior level students.

Betty Hicks of Oshawa, a teacher from 1962 to 1982

Betty was primarily a grade 3 and 4 teacher while serving at Archie Stouffer Elementary School. She remembered the classes were much larger than they are today with her largest being 41 students. The Christmas concerts at the school were bright spots in her memory of her 20 years at the school, but one incident in particular will remain etched in her mind forever.

"Classes had just ended for the usual school break and teachers were heading off for their Christmas holidays. However, before I had an opportunity to start my vacation I was forced to spend an extra hour in the school."

It seems she had entered the staff washroom and was about to leave when the door mechanism locked. Try as she might from the inside, she was unable to open the door. She was locked in for over an hour as staff memebers and custodial staff attempted to free her. It wasn't until the door was removed from its hinges that she was finally freed and could start her own Christmas break.

Terri Legge of Peterborough, graduated 1983

"Everything at Archie Stouffer was great. . . I enjoyed my time there," Terri said.

"I especially enjoyed the sports program at the school. I was involved on every sports team I could." Volleyball and track and field were her favourites.

Commenting on the school of today, Terri added, "I was impressed with all the new computers and equipment they have at the school." She said it would have made school more interesting if they had had access to them when she was a student there.

Greg Cairns of London, Ontario, graduated 1986
Kim Johnson of Minden, graduated 1986
Lisa Valentine of Moore Falls, graduated 1986

These three were classmates during the graduating year.

Lisa recalled the cross-country races held at the school in which students from other schools throughout the county were invited to take part. "I remember a pot hole located just at the top of the hill. Everytime I ran the race, my foot seemed to find that hole and I sprained my ankle. . . everytime." Lisa is in her OAC year at HHSS.

Greg recalls a grade eight history project which involved all the members of his class in a re-enactment of the war of 1812. Under the direction of teachers Penny Obee and Ted Reid, the students used the hill at the back of the school as their stage. Playing a variety of roles, including French, English and Native parts, the students brought to life this important point in Canadian history.

Greg also recalled a suprise while on the grade eight trip to Niagara Falls. One evening there was a knock on the motel room he was sharing with a number of other students. Expecting to find a male teacher checking on them, he didn't bother to slip on his trousers and opened the door to find Mrs. Obee standing there.

Greg is attending high school in London, Ontario ater working for a year in construction.

Kim also remembered the Niagara Falls trip, "when the boys broke into our room, and having done that, promptly left." She also recalls riding the twisting roller coaster at Marineland until becoming physically sick by the experience.

Samantha Reagin of Minden, will graduate in 1991

Even though her years at Archie Stouffer are not yet complete, Samantha readily identifies one experience at the school which has been most memorable.

She thinks that her class' involvement in the Sunship Earth program was the highlight of her years at the school. The program involves a week-long outdoor education experience at Camp Wanakita near Haliburton. During their stay at the camp the students receive first-hand experience on how all forces in our planet are linked. "It was wicked," she concluded.

She also has indelible memories of the time a number of students in her class obtained a copy of a history test they were about to be given. Of course, their advance knowledge of the test was discovered shortly after the test was handed in and those involved were reprimanded by the vice principal. She was asked if they would ever try such a thing again, and she replied, "Never!"

ASES not the only reunion

by Jim Hicks

Archie Stouffer School was not the only reunion held September 22 and 23 in Haliburton.

The inclement weekend weather did not dampen the spirits of 150 former campers and staff of Calumet Camp who came from all over Canada and the U.S. to celebrate sixty years of camping on the shores of Lake Boshkung.

Hugs and kisses, lots of laughs, hundreds of old pictures, many stories recalled and even some tears highlighted the event which also included a campfire, a dance, a torchlight parade, three excellent meals (prepared by D&D Catering of Minden) and a church service conducted by Reverend Bill Harter of Pennysylvania, a former camper and staff member.

Participants came from as far away as British Columbia, Alberta, Nova Scotia, Washington, D.C., and Ohio. Some had not seen one another for as long as 50 years while others still keep in touch on a regular basis.

Calumet was established in 1930 by Garnet Bailey as a boys camp. In 1942 his wife Lillian began the girls camp on adjacent property. The camp is now owned and managed by Jim and Joan Cochlin who were responsible for arranging the 60th birthday party.

All who attended agreed it was an emotional experience which brought back many wonderful memories. It was also decided that a committee be established to arrange Calumet's 65th reunion party.

Economists carry great influence; No wonder planet's in sorry shape

Reflections

by David Suzuki

Headlines warn us of potential recession, change in the value of the dollar, rising interest rates, inflation and every tremor in the stock market.

In response, governments thrash about trying to find a magic formula for steady growth in the economy. Economists are arguably the most influential group of professional people in the world today as their every pronouncement carries vast percussions. No wonder the planet is in such desperate shape.

Economists live in a dream world that bears no relationship to the things that keep us alive. Consider this.

I have just returned to Canada after sweltering through 10 days of a blistering heat wave in England that reached the highest temperature in English history - 37 degrees celcius on August 3, 1990. This could well eclipse 1989 as England's hottest year on record.

Scanning newspapers in England, I learned of record air pollution in cities, water shortages, increases in forest fires, increases in insurance claims for damage to homes, the collapse of market gardening, drownings and other heat-related deaths, skyrocketing prices of cheese and milk, and a drastic decrease in holiday bookings.

I can attest to the suffocating build-up of low-level ozone in London and chaos in train schedules as tracks buckled under heat. That short heat wave had tremendous repercussions throughout English society.

Is the weather instability we seem to be seeing around the world merely the normal fluctuations of nature or the consequence of global warming?

Human activity has already significantly increased global temperature as P.D. Jones and T.M.L. Wigley report in the August 1990 editon of Scientific American. So what do economists have to say about it? Here is the response of Yale University professor William D. Nordhaus in The Economist of July 7, 1990.

He acknowledges that "scientific monitoring has firmly established the build-up of the main greenhouse gases." But as an economist, Nordhaus thinks planetary climate is irrelevant to urban life: "Cities are increasingly becoming climate-proofed by technological changes like air-conditioning and shopping malls."

The economic importance of industrialization apparently renders Amercians exempt from the physical world: "Greenhouse warming would have little effect on America's national output. About three per cent of American GNP originates in climate-sensitive sectors as farming and forestry. Another 10 per cent comes from sectors only modestly sensitive—energy, water systems, property and construction. Far the largest share - 87 per cent - comes from sectors, including most services, that are negligibly affected by climate change."

Even though our very lives depend on nutrition that comes from agriculture that is very climate-sensitive, to Nordhaus, food can be written off: "For the bulk of the economy, however - manufacturing, mining, utilities, finance, trade and most services - climate change over the next few decades is likely to have less effect than the economic reunification of Germany this summer."

His reasoning is like concluding that since the stomach is a minor organ compared to the brain, we can do without it.

But what about the urgent warnings about increasing greenhouse gases? Here's Nordhaus' response: "All these prognostications are judgements based on immense uncertainties. They could be dead wrong. This uncertainty must affect mankind's choice of responses to the threat of global warming."

Since Nordhaus, like most economists, place the economy above all else when it comes to matters environmental, he finds the economic costs of meeting the greenhouse effect-head on too great.

Nordhaus calculates the bill for a 60-per-cent reduction in greenhouse gas emissions at over $300 billion annually.

With a faith in the capacity of human ingenuity to solve our problems and improve our lives, Nordhaus' choice to counter global warming is technology: "The option of climate engineering has been completely neglected. Possibilities include shooting particulate matter into the stratosphere to cool the earth, altering land-use patterns to change the globe's reflectivity, and cultivating carbon-eating organisms in the oceans."

He then dismisses the fact that "such measure would raise profound legal, ethical and enviromental issues" because the technological attempts would also probably be far more cost-effective than shutting down the world's power plants."

There you have it folks, the world seen through the bizarre lenses of an economist.

We are grossly ignorant about the factors that shape climate and weather while history is full of examples of even the most benign of technologies having unpredictable and undesirable consequences when applied on a massive scale. It would be absolutely foolhardy to believe that we can come up with a technological fix for greenhouse warming.

Nordhaus even suggests that we can adapt our lifestyles and economy to the unpredictable and chaotic consequences of global warming. My 10 days in England suggest that if the predicted warming does occur, it will be socially and economically disastrous.

We have no choice. We must begin to massively cut down on greenhouse gas emissions now, else we leave our children to pay the disastrous price of trusting economists with their foolhardy ideas.

Children's concerts break new ground

The Haliburton County Childrens' Concert Series has announced its 1990/91 program, with series tickets available beginning this week. Once again, an outstanding lineup of performers is on hand, with even more diversity of program content than in previous years. Series planners have also indicated that the audience age range of this year's concerts will be slightly increased, so that most children under the age of twelve will enjoy the concerts.

The series opens on Saturday, November 17th at 2:00 p.m. with one of Canada's best children's artists, Charlotte Diamond. Diamond has played concerts all across Canada as well as the United States and has received universal acclaim from kids and parents alike. Her recordings have received a Juno Award and many nominations, and they will be available at the concert.

On February 10, 1991, the Concert Series breaks new ground with a presentation of The Magic Flute by the Ontario Ballet Theatre. This delightful company has been introducing children to the world of dance and ballet since 1980. Original choreography and music, beautiful costumes and a lively story make Ontario Ballet theatre a very special event for the children of Haliburton County.

The final concert is on April 21, 1991, with Kaleidoscope Story Theatre presenting a production that seems to include everything: mime, music, song, dance, and story-telling. Versatility and fun are the hallmarks of Kaleidoscope.

All concerts are at 2:00 p.m. in the gymnasium of Haliburton Highlands Secondary School, Haliburton. Please note that the first concert, November 17, is on a Saturday, both other dates are Sundays. Tickets for the series are available for $40 for all three concerts. This is a family subscription, whether you have one child, or six, or more. This price will rise to $45 on November 1, 1990, so parents are advised to subscribe early. Previous subscribers will be contacted, but anyone wishing to purchase a series ticket can do so at CHACE Place Haliburton, CHACE Minden, Bins and Baskets in Haliburton, or call Barrie Wood at 754-4227 or Gayle Arnup at 457-3782.

The Haliburton County Childrens' Concert Series is partly funded by the Ontario Arts Council, with the balance coming from ticket sales. By expanding their range of appeal this year, Series organizers are gearing for a larger than ever audience.

The codfish lays ten thousand eggs,
The homely hen lays one.
The codfish never cackles
To tell you what she's done.
And so we scorn the codfish,
While the humble hen we prize,
Which only goes to show you
That it pays to advertise.

Rail's End Gallery gives interim curator a permanent position

The new curator at the Rails' End Gallery will be a familiar face to the patrons.

Holly Hutchison, who has been the gallery's interim curator since May, is now officially filling the position on a permanent basis.

Virginia Muenzel, a member of the personnel committee for the gallery's board of directors, announced Friday that Hutchison was selected from the 10 applicants to fill the position. She will be replacing Eileen Freer, who retired in May.

Munzel said the board is pleased with the excellent work that Hutchison has done for the past several months as the interim curator and felt she was the best candidate for the position.

Prior to filling in as the interim curator, Hutchison worked as a secretary and assistant to the curator for the gallery.

Time for hunters to prepare

Another fall has arrived and with the fall many residents start thinking about the upcoming hunting season. Every fall the local Ministry of Natural Resources and OPP offices receive many complaints from land owners about hunters trespassing on their lands. The actions of a few irresponsible individuals can affect the public's perception of all hunters.

Hunters caught trespassing can face charges under either the Trespass to Property Act or the Game and Fish Act. Penalties under the Trespass to Property Act can range up to a $1000 fine while those charged under the Game and Fish Act could be fined up to $25,000 and face hunting licence suspensions.

Hunters and landowners should both be aware of areas where entry is prohibited even if no signs are present, these include:

- a garden, field or other land under cultivation including: a lawn, an orchard, or a vineyard.
- premises on which trees have been planted and have not obtained an average height of more than 2 metres
- woodlots used primarily for agricultural purposes
- enclosed in a manner than indicates the landowners intention to keep persons off the premises or to keep animals on the premises.

Landowners wishing to post their properties have two options. They may use signs indicating that entry is prohibited such as 'No Trespassing', 'No Entry' or 'Keep Out'. If a landowner only wishes to keep out certain groups, signs stating 'No Hunting' or 'No Hunting without permission' would be sufficient. The Trespass to Property Act also allows landowners to use symbols or colour markings rather than signs. Red markings mean all entry is prohibited. Yellow markings indicate that entry is prohibited except for certain activities, and a person who wishes to enter must find out either from the signs or the landowner what activities are permitted.

The markings must be large enough for a circle 10 centimeters (4") in diameter to fit within.

Where signs or colour markings are used they must be posted so that they are clearly visible in the daylight under normal conditions from the approach to every ordinary point of access to the property.

Get to know the landowner, talk to him/her, understand his/her concerns for fences, livestock and crops.

Learn where you can hunt, how often and if you can bring companions.

Hunt only in designated areas and observe safety zones.

Demonstrate that you are a responsible and ethical hunter by obeying firearm safety rules, game laws and the Regulations.

Offer to share your game,

(more on page 45)

Careless hunting is dangerous

Another hunting season is upon us in Ontario, and while it can be a challenging activity, the Ontario Provincial Police would like to remind citizens it can also be dangerous if engaged in carelessly.

Every year in Ontario, many people are killed or injured in hunting accidents that could easily have been avoided. In the 10 years from 1980 to 1990, an average of 35 people a year were injured in Ontario hunting accidents, while an average of five were killed.

The most common hunting accidents involve careless use of firearms, unsafe use of boats, and getting lost in the bush. These can be avoided by taking a few "common sense", but essential precautions.

Treat every firearm as if it is loaded. Never point a gun at anything you do not intend to kill, and know where your firearm is pointed at all times.

Genealogists trace their roots

by Cec Rowe

The Haliburton Highlands Genealogy Group was established Thursday evening, September 20, 1990, at the Minden Public Library as an informal independent group of people for the purpose of tracing and recording ancestors, and the complete recording of Haliburton County cemeteries to establish permanent records, locally, for the Ontario Genealogical Society (OGS) and the Natural Archives. The long term aims are to assist not only each other but anyone requesting help in genealogical research, and to trace histories of the original pioneers in Haliburton County.

The idea to form a group began early this year when Cec Rowe and Gerry Rome volunteered to record cemeteries for the OGS, but when they discovered there are 27 known and several not listed they decided it would require some help. Several got together at the Rowe residence and a visit my Stephen Negus, the cemetery co-ordinator for OGS, to get us on the right track resulted with Minden cemetery completed and basic work on some of the others.

There are 16 people so far and it was decided to hold four meetings a year on the last Thursday of November, March, June and September. Meetings at Boppa's restaurant, Hwy. 35 Minden at 8 p.m. Mailing address for the group is Box 567, Minden, Ontario, K0M 2K0. Officers appointed are as follows:
Co-chairmen - Carol Myles and June Beeney.
Secretary - June Partridge
Treasurer and Membership - Gerry Rome
Pedigree Records - Elizabeth Mugridge
Cemetery Co-ordinator and Publicity - Cec Rowe
Annual membership fee: $5.

Depending on weather, a cemetery recording day for 12 Mile Lake will be called as soon after Thanksgiving as possible.
